

Wise Fox

A Monthly Publication of the Foxboro Jaycees

August 2003

Hello friends.

We're moving into the homestretch on summer, and the Jaycee calendar for the month of August has a distinct family slant and plenty of opportunities to take advantage of the great outdoors. Family Day trip to the zoo and the PawSox Game join weekly Concerts, softball and volleyball as fun excuses to get out and bring the family. Cathy Kelson-Reid and Amy George will be looking for plenty of manpower to assist them on Tuesday August 5th as we continue to support the National Family Night Out against drugs and violence. Please answer the call to spend some time on this important community event.

For those who haven't done so already, check out the July 24 Foxboro Reporter front-page photo and story on our own Ed Groh, stationed at Tallil Airbase in Iraq. In related news, Elise Behn and her committee will be gathering items to be shipped to our colleagues, family, and friends on active duty. The list of suggested items is included in this edition of the Wise Fox, and posted on the Jaycee website. Contributions will be collected at the August GM, and you may also phone Elise to have material picked up right at your door. This is a great chance to send greetings to Ed, Greg, Matt Howard, Jennifer Cummings, and any others we know who are proudly serving our country and cause.

Here at home, we've been steadily adding troops to the Jaycee roster and will be continuing to do so. Welcome aboard Randy Groves and Nate Emery; we are anticipating the addition of several more people with whom Amy has been in contact, and with Call Nights and an Orientation leading up to this GM there ought to be a good number of new faces in the crowd. Stop into the New Members' Social on August 16th at the Emery's or seek out these folks at upcoming events, introduce yourself and welcome them to our team.

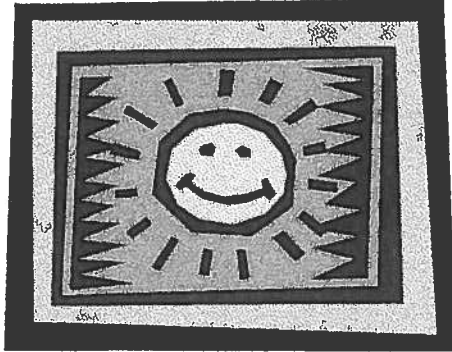

As anyone who's tried to schedule a meeting recently will tell you, there's a lot going on right now. In order to both encourage participation and to minimize conflicts, efficient and effective communications are key. Area VPs will be looking for fresh voices and ideas in signing up project chairs. Project chairs are urged to be diligent in getting out the word about manpower needs and event scheduling. And all members are asked to make use of the tremendous resources available for info about Jaycee goings-on; read and save your Wise Fox which Sandy Emery is spinning out masterfully each month, check the website which Bob Gillis updates almost daily, and pick up the phone if there's a question about anything you see or seek. Please don't wait for news to come to you, nor assume that valuable information will simply trickle through to everyone who may care to know; this is a recipe for disappointment. Step up, reach out, and take the initiative to find answers to your questions and pass along that which you wish others to know. At the very least you run the risk of striking up a friendly conversation, but your call may be just the one which activates someone (perhaps yourself) who might not otherwise have enjoyed and brought a spark to a task or activity.

Thank you,
-KB

The CPG will be listed on the web site, however it will not be available for download on the Jaycee web site as they are considered internal Jaycee documents and not for public distribution. Jaycee's can obtain an electronic copy of a CPG listed on the web site, by simply mailing or calling Bob.

Foxboro Jaycees Welcome Sign Move - Dave Reid and Bob Gillis took down the weather-beaten, unreadable Jaycee Welcome sign at Bradlees Plaza and replaced it with the much better one from sign from North Street. The Jaycee meeting hours sign was also in excellent shape so they placed that at Bradlees Plaza as well. Look for the signs just as you pass the Farm Stand on your way toward the Common!

Guest Speakers

- ♦ Vicki Withers of Council on Aging/Human Services spoke to us about the HUGS (Help Us Get Safe) Domestic Violence Victim Support Organization, as well as the Lifeline program, which provides instant crisis contact for seniors who need emergency attention – the program is similar to the “I’ve fallen and I can’t get up commercials” we’ve seen. Lifeline provides a senior with a literal “lifeline” to 24/7 contact at Sturdy Hospital. Two very impressive and important programs.

I am looking for someone to work with Dave Reid in coordinating a group to work a few events at the stadium this year. If you know of an upcoming event you'd be interested in, please let Dave or myself know. Also, keep your eyes on the web site for a listing!

WHO'S WHO

You know you're an RFO when you witness the swearing in of the children of your Jaycee contemporaries! Well, that's just what happened at the July GM when we welcomed Nate Emery to the chapter. And to add insult to injury, he had just helped put a hurtin' on us old guys at the Associates / Regulars softball game!

Nate certainly has good Jaycee lineage. His parents, Mark and Sandy are both long time, active members with over 10 years of active duty. Mark is a past President and Haunted House chairman and Sandy has been on the Board multiple times and is the current Wise Fox editor. Nate will have some big shoes to fill.

A Foxboro High graduate in the class of 2000, Nate was a star of the football team and was always involved with sports through his "townie" youth. With the help of members Paul Howard and Mike Savage, Nate got a start in HVAC (heating, ventilation & air conditioning). He is currently a union apprentice with the Comm Air Company. Nate did tell me that he is not allowed to mention Mike's name around the company anymore!

Nate has been seeing Jaycee projects go on for the last 10-12 years. I'm sure we will be seeing him around a lot. I'm sure he could look damned scary up at the Haunted House! Welcome home, Nate!

WHO'S WHO

Hello, my name is Bob Webster and I joined the Jaycees in 1989. My hobbies are.....HEY, wait a minute we actually have a new member this month.

Randy Groves was minding his own business, one night, at the Ancient Mariner when he met some Jaycees. It seems that Kris Long, Kenny Wills and Lynda Walsh were having a Founder's Day Concessions "meeting". The next thing you know, Randy was working all day for Kris at the Run For Mya and getting sworn in by Kathy Brady at the Roadrace after-party.

Randy graduated from Norton High School 10 years ago. He has been in the Army ever since. He was based in Georgia for the most part but had tours in many parts of the world including Bosnia and most recently, Afghanistan. He is now living with his grandparents on Gilmore Street (a good address!). His plan is to take it easy this summer and look for a full time job in the armed services this fall.

Having grown up in the area, Randy remembers hearing things about the Foxboro Jaycees and he has fond memories of the old Haunted House at the State Hospital. He is planning on digging right in with Jaycee projects. He has already played Pick-up Volleyball (yes, he can take the heat) and will be working with Dave Conti rebuilding the fire pit at Camp Lincoln Hill. Welcome aboard, Randy. It looks like we've got ourselves a "keeper"!
